Office Action Summary

Art Unit: 1712

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1 and 2 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Murakami. The rejection is applied as in the previous Office action. Applicant argues that the reference does not suggest a polymer having both a fluoroolefin unit and a vinyl versatate unit. Both vinyl versatate and fluoroolefin are taught as comonomers that may be used in combination in the vinyl polymer having reactive groups. See col. 4, lines 28-34. As suggested by Murakami, it would have been obvious to use a combination of vinyl versatate and fluoroolefin as comonomers in the vinyl polymer having reactive groups and combine with a polyester having reactive groups and a curing agent in order to obtain a powder coating composition having good physical properties, appearance, weatherability and staining resistance.

Claims 4 and 5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Foukes. The reference teaches powder coating compositions comprising a polyester having a reactive group and curing agent. The polyester can be prepared from 1,4-cyclohexane dicarboxylic acid and neopentyl glycol (col. 4, lines 5 and 18). The composition may include a fluorinated polyester flow control agent (col. 7, lines 38-55). As suggested by the reference, it would have been obvious to combine a reactive group containing polyester prepared from 1,4-cyclohexane dicarboxylic acid and optionally neopentyl glycol with a curing agent and a fluorinated polyester in order to obtain a powder coating composition having reduced surface tension before it is cured.

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claim 2 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. Claim 2 is indefinite because there is no antecedent basis for vinyl ester in claim 1. Vinyl versatate and vinyl benzoate do not have a range of molecular weights but rather specific molecular weights.

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
